Questions/Answers:

Question #1: I am needing clarification on a couple of line items on the pricing list – the 1st and 2nd floor atrium glass, and the 1st floor handrail glass both at the City County Building. Could you please clarify the physical location of these areas?

Answer #1: The 1st & 2nd floor atrium glass at City County Building is a southern facing section in the center of the building that faces the Tennessee River. It is an inclined section that spans about 100’.

The 1st floor handrail glass is unique to that floor. It is a handrail made of safety glass and capped by a handrail at the top which allows visitors an unobstructed, safe view down into the Main Floor level.
