Questions/Answers:

Q1: The existing doors are mounted to steel jambs and masonry. Would you prefer that we mount the doors as they exist now or have them installed using pressure treated wood?

Heather Anderson

Daniel Brown

A1: PBA would consider the installation of pressure treated wood provided that it would maintain or exceed the existing integrity of the door systems. Suppliers may submit pricing for an installation that includes pressure treated wood in addition to the steel jambs and masonry so that PBA can evaluate and determine the preferred option for replacement.

Jon Clark

Scott Davis

Rob Glass

Jason Legg

Q2: How many door operators would you like?

Ann Marie Tugwell

A2: PBA has requested a price per each for operators as some of the operators may not need to be replaced at this time. If the current operators are obsolete (e.g. there is an issue getting replacement and/or repair parts) or there are price breaks for the number of operators purchased and installed, please include that in your proposal.

Q3: The doors are available in different colors. Do you want to keep the door white or change to another color?

A3: The doors should be white as specified in Section 4.5.
