

Website Design – Request for Quote (RFQ)

ADDENDUM II

Answers to Questions

1. Is the Fire Department keeping the website below? Or should we include them into the City website project? They can still keep the URL, if they want to be part of the City website environment. Second question: Do they want their own unique landing page design? Or keep it as all other internal pages?

- <http://www.georgetowncityfire.org/>

The Fire Department manages and maintains their own website and are not included in this bid proposal.

2. On the RFQ we are required to initial the terms and conditions. Initialing each page is to express we have reviewed only and not accepting of the specific terms? Or if we have areas of interest to counter changes, should we include them now?

The responding firm should initial each page to express that they have reviewed and understand the RFQ. If the responding firm has any exceptions to the RFQ, please list them on the following page under the title, "Exceptions". The exception page must be included with the quote submittal in order for the City to acknowledge.
