Chattanooga, TN

Hamilton County TN Riverpark (photo via Chattanooga Times Free Press)

FALLEN FIVE MEMORIAL

OPEN CALL TO ARTISTS + DESIGN TEAMS

Deadline: April 27, 2017, by 4:00 p.m., EST

Proposal Honorarium: $5,000

Projected Implementation Budget: $750,000 (fundraising goal)

OVERVIEW:

Public Art Chattanooga and the Steering Committee for the Fallen Five Memorial seek artist led multi-disciplinary design team's artistic qualifications to commemorate the fatal shootings of five servicemen on July 16, 2015, through a permanent memorial in Chattanooga's TN Riverpark. Up to three teams will be selected as semi-finalists. Each semi-finalist will be awarded a $5,000 stipend to develop a site specific proposal. The implemented design will transform an existing site in the popular TN Riverpark into a contemplative space for the community to mourn, reflect, and honor the lives of the fallen heroes. This opportunity is open to design teams in the U.S. Artist led teams including architects, landscape architects, engineers and lighting designers are encouraged to apply. The receipt deadline is April 27, 2017, by 4:00pm EST. For more information about Public Art Chattanooga visit:

www.publicartchattanooga.com

(FUTURE) ARTWORK VISION:

The Fallen Five Memorial Steering Committee envisions a contemplative space for the community to mourn, reflect, and honor the lives of our fallen heroes:

- Marine Corps Sergeant Carson A. Holmquist, (Age 25)
- Navy Logistics Specialist Second Class Randall Smith, (Age 26)
- Marine Corps Gunnery Sergeant Thomas J. Sullivan, (Age 40)
- Marine Corps Lance Corporal Squire K. "Skip" Wells, (Age 21)
- Marine Corps Staff Sergeant David A. Wyatt, (Age 35)

The artwork and/or landscape should respectfully acknowledge the sacrifice of the Fallen Five and their families and address both the tragic and heroic acts that occurred on July 16, 2015, at the US Navy Operational Support Center (NOSC). The Committee also hopes the memorial will celebrate the unique character of the Chattanooga community and provide a space to share stories and memories of the tremendous acts of kindness, support and strength that occurred following July 16th. Chattanooga Mayor, Andy Berke commended the entire city for their response to the tragedy saying, "Moments of crisis reveal much about character. While we could have seen a city of hatred, anger or bitterness, we witnessed the opposite." See page 11 for further background information and biographies of the Fallen Five.

(FUTURE) ARTWORK / DESIGN GOALS:

The Fallen Five Memorial should commemorate the lives of the (5) fallen heroes with a transformative public artwork and/or landscape design that:

- Creates a serene setting where visitors can pause and reflect;
- Considers the full experience of the space through an integrated design;
- Considers appropriateness for the site, including scale and safety;
- Ensures low maintenance through use of permanent materials; and
- Promotes inclusivity through the adherence to ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) guidelines as appropriate.

The following elements should be considered for inclusion:

- Appropriate marker at the entrance of the Memorial with information regarding the tragic and heroic events that took place on July 16;
- Seating options; and
- Appropriate lighting.

(FUTURE) ARTWORK / DESIGN PARAMETERS:

The artwork and/or landscape must not obstruct pedestrian right of ways and must generally meet the safety standards of Hamilton County. As this is an intensively used public space, memorial elements must be constructed of materials that are highly resistant to theft and vandalism as well as appropriate for Chattanooga's four season climate. The artwork and landscape should be designed for permanent installation.

(2) SITE OPTIONS (1) LOCATION:

Chattanooga's TN Riverpark has been recognized as one of the best in the nation. CNN Travel named the Riverpark among the World's 10 Best City Running Trails and Thrillist.com placed the Riverpark among their list of 10 of America's Coolest Urban Running Trails. The Amnicola Marsh Park is located immediately adjacent to the US Navy Reserve Center (NOSC), the second site of the shootings. Two existing sites within the Amnicola Marsh Park have been identified as appropriate location options for the Fallen Five Memorial. Artists / Designers can consider one or both site locations in their submissions.

Site option 1 (wooded area)

Site option 2 (riverfront site)

BUDGET:

BACKGROUND

July 16, 2015, is a date few Chattanoogaans will forget. On that day a lone gunman committed an act of domestic terrorism and four Marines and one Sailor lost their lives in the line of duty.

Muhammad Youssef Abdulazeez opened fire on two military installations in Chattanooga, Tennessee. He first committed a drive-by shooting at a recruiting center, then traveled to a US Navy Operational Support Center (NOSC) and continued firing, where he was killed by Chattanooga Police Department officers. Four Marines, all members of Mike Battery, 3rd Battalion, 14th Marine Regiment, 4th Marine Division and Marine Forces Reserve, died on site at the NOSC. A Navy sailor was wounded and succumbed to his injuries two days later.

Purple Hearts were awarded posthumously to the four Marines and Naval officer and accepted by their family members during award ceremonies in or around Chattanooga. A Purple Heart was also awarded to the USMC recruiter who suffered a gunshot wound to the leg.

In the hours after the attack, the Chattanooga community immediately came together in a spirit of unity to honor those who lost their lives that Thursday afternoon and to provide support for the families of:

- Marine Corps Sergeant Carson A. Holmquist, (Age 25)
- Navy Logistics Specialist Second Class Randall Smith, (Age 26)
- Marine Corps Gunnery Sergeant Thomas J. Sullivan, (Age 40)
- Marine Corps Lance Corporal Squire K. "Skip" Wells, (Age 21)
- Marine Corps Staff Sergeant David A. Wyatt, (Age 35)

An Interfaith Prayer Vigil was held the following night to unify citizens and help Chattanooga's grieving community.

Makeshift memorials quickly formed at both military locations. Cards streamed in from around the world, national news outlets were hastily staged in locations across the city, and “Chattanooga Strong” was quickly adopted as a term to unite the community.

Hundreds of service members of the US Navy and United States Marine Corps (USMC) arrived to support and console their fellow service members and the families of the fallen. Two funeral services were held in Chattanooga, with burials at the National Cemetery.

Citizens across Hamilton County immediately began to ask “What can I do to help?” That sentiment echoed around Chattanooga and the surrounding area for months. Immediately following the attack, city and county government were overwhelmed with people who wanted to do something for the families of the Fallen Five, with a patriotism that cannot be understated. While no one can truly understand what the families went through, Chattanoogaans knew that part of their duty as Americans was to offer a helping hand and bear some of the pain.

On July 16, 2015, the residents of Chattanooga, Tennessee, vowed they would not be defined by loss but by how they responded to it. And through that response, Chattanooga showed the world a city that is compassionate, caring and patriotic.

Chattanooga is a city that regularly makes national headlines for assets like a 10 gigabit internet speeds, world-class sporting events like IronMan, and accolades like "Best Town Ever" from Outside Magazine. But the tragedy of July 16, 2015, and the days and weeks that followed, showed the world Chattanooga's character -- a community determined to come together in unity, and to heal as one.

A month following the attack, United State Vice President Joe Biden and Secretary of Defense Ashton Carter spoke during a memorial service in Chattanooga. During the service, Battery Commander Major Michael Abrams expressed his deep pride of how the marines and sailors responded to the shootings, saying, "In the chaos of that moment, they were selfless in their efforts to take care of one another, and they acted with unquestionable courage."

Addressing the families directly at the public memorial service, a visibly emotional Vice President Biden reassured that "the day will come, as hard as it is to believe, when his memory will brings a smile to your lips, not a tear to your eye. That's when you'll know you'll be alright." To the entire audience, Biden said "Chattanooga, the country has and still stands with you and it will remember what you've done."

July 16, 2015, has forever changed Chattanooga, Tennessee, and its' citizens wish to honor the lives of the Fallen Five as well as recognize how the community came together in unity, even in the darkest of days.
